THE CANADIAN STUDIES
PROGRAMME AT LOYOLA

FIRST

THE CENTRE FOR INTERDISCIPLINARY STUDIES CANADIAN STUDIES PROGRAMME

The Canadian Studies Programme at Loyola College was established in 1972. This relatively new interdisciplinary programme offers students a wide range of courses with Canadian content. Students taking courses within the programme receive individual counselling at each stage of their work. Opportunities for contact with the faculty are much greater than would be possible in the ordinary B.A. Programme. The Canadian Studies Programme is flexible; students may emphasize a certain area within the Canadian field (e.g. Quebec, Native Peoples of Canada, Montreal, The Far North).

AIMS OF THE PROGRAMME

The Canadian Studies Programme seeks to give students a better understanding of the diverse origins and multi-faceted character of Canada. Understanding Canada better through various disciplines, the graduate may wish to proceed towards higher degrees in Canadian Studies elsewhere, or he may seek employment in jobs which require such understanding. Students graduating from this programme will hold a B.A. degree with a major in Canadian Studies (Interdisciplinary Studies).
